CERTIFIED BY STATE BOARD

Eugene S. Sickles, who was recommended by Gettysburg's new Board of Health, at its organization meeting October 12, for borough health officer, has received temporary certification from the state Board of Health, W. Preston Hull, president of the health board, said today.

Mr. Hull said the certification was given with the understanding that Sickles attend the next school held by the state department for health officers at Harrisburg. The state board, however, said it might be some time before a school is held.

The health board will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the office of Dr. Harrison F. Harbach, 31 South Washington street. Dr. Harbach is a member of the board.

Mr. Hull said Sickles will begin his duties after the health board meeting. His designation as health officer is expected to be confirmed at the next meeting of the borough council November 7. Sickles is also fire marshal.

MANY ATTEND
RECEPTION FOR BERKHEIMERS

Members of the Lutheran congregations of Arendtsville and Flohr's and many other friends attended the reception held Sunday evening at the Trinity Lutheran church, Arendtsville, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. George H. Berkheimer and their son, William. The Rev. Mr. Berkheimer has been pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church of Arendtsville and the Flohr's Lutheran church, near McKnightstown, for 14 years and is resigning today. Several hundred attended the reception.

The reception was informal. There were no speeches and no program for the informal gathering of the large number of persons who assembled to wish Rev. Berkheimer and his family well and express their gratitude for 14 years of service as pastor in the Arendtsville church.

John Bream, a member of Flohr's Lutheran church, acting on behalf of the members from both congregations, expressed appreciation "for a job well done." To Mrs. Berkheimer he presented a bouquet of flowers and to Rev. Berkheimer he handed an envelope containing a gift of money.

Starts New Duties Tuesday

As he accepted this token of appreciation, the Rev. Mr. Berkheimer said: "I was assured that this was to be an informal reception and that there would be no speeches. So there will be no speeches. This is a highlight in my time spent here with you. Today I look back with great appreciation and keen pleasure upon the 14 years that I have spent here. I can only ask that you give the same co-operation to the next pastor. No man could ask for more."

Refreshments were served.

Rev. Berkheimer will become assistant to Dr. Dwight F. Putman, president of the Central Pennsylvania synod of the United Lutheran Church, and will act also as synod secretary. He will assume his duties on Tuesday but will not move from Arendtsville immediately.

Girl Scouts Need Leaders

Once upon a time, twenty or thirty years ago, there were just a few thousand Girl Scouts in this country. Were you one of them? If you were, you can be a great help to Girl Scouts today.

More than a million American girls are now members of this fine organization and thousands more want to join. But they need grown-up women to lead them, especially grown-up women who can bring the rich experience of their own early Girl Scout training.

Even if you have not had Girl Scout experience, if you are over 21, enjoy meeting new people, have a hobby, like the out-of-doors, why not combine all of these and become a Girl Scout leader, a consultant, troop committee member, adviser or sponsor? The girls of your community need you, your time, your knowledge, your friendship. This is Girl Scout Week. Won't you volunteer at your Girl Scout office today? Call Gettysburg 6W or stop in at the Little House on East High street. You will be more than welcome.

Area Travel Counsellors On Visit Here

Thirty-five travel counsellors of American Automobile Association offices in the District of Columbia area spent Sunday in Gettysburg in a visual study of the attractions offered to visitors to this historic shrine.

The group was headed by Colonel Walter Whitely Hubbard, editor of The American Motorist, a magazine of travel published by the AAA; and Warren H. Bonelli, manager of services for the D. C. division of the AAA organization. The group were guests of The Gettysburg Times, Hotel Gettysburg, The National Museum, the Cyclorama and the Jenny Wade House.

Colonel Hubbard said the visit here is in keeping with the AAA program of affording visual education to travel bureau personnel who direct the sightseeing of thousands of visitors to the nation's capital. Previously, tours of a similar type have been made to Fredericksburg, Va., Luray and the Skyline.

"Travel has become much more than mere recreation and amassing of mileage, and it is important to our country that its citizens take the time to study and understand the history of this nation as it is made manifest by an appreciation of historic shrines such as Gettysburg," Colonel Hubbard explained.

"A thorough understanding of the fundamentals of freedom which were established at Independence Hall, Valley Forge, Gettysburg and other hallowed shrines, is the best assurance that we can merit and keep the freedom for which our forefathers struggled in the face of the foreign and un-American doctrines that project themselves into our lives today."

Dr. Frederick Tilberg, historian of the National Park Service, conducted the bus tour of the battlefield. The counsellors were presented with publications by The Gettysburg Times and were luncheon guests of Hotel Gettysburg. Joseph Rosensteel lectured to the group at the National Museum while Alfred Mongin delivered the lecture at the Cyclorama.

The theme of the convention, "United! Committed! In Christ," was developed in three discussion sessions, during which the purpose and the program of the United Christian Youth Movement was presented to the delegates. Mrs. Nora M. Sigafosse, who conducts a gift shop between Emmitsburg and Thurmont, went home Sunday night without her skirt. It wasn't the one she was wearing, however.

Mrs. Sigafosse was holding the skirt on her lap, and believes it fell out of the car when she got out on Baltimore street.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Dies
Today; Ex-Secretary Of State

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 31 (P)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., wartime head of lend-lease and U. S. Secretary of State when the United Nations came into being, died today at the age of 49.

The white-haired, handsome Stettinius, who at 37 became board chairman of the U. S. Steel corporation, was his country's first U. N. delegate. He was named rector of the University of Virginia after leaving the U. N. post in 1946.

Death came at 7:30 a. m. (EST) at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Trippe here. Mrs. Trippe is Stettinius' sister. Her husband is head of Pan-American World Airways.

A rich man's son, Stettinius went into government service and shortly became administrator of the $60,000,000 Lend-Lease program that played a major role in the final defeat of Nazi Germany.

The former cabinet member's secretary said members of the household found Stettinius unconscious in bed this morning. He died soon after a physician arrived at the house.

Stettinius had suffered from a heart condition since last spring, his secretary said, and had been convalescing here.

His wife and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wallace, were with him when he died.

Stettinius started his industrial career with General Motors, becoming a vice president in 1931. He went to U. S. Steel three years later and succeeded Myron C. Taylor as board chairman in 1938.

He did not hold the post long. President Roosevelt made him chairman of the War Resources Board the following year and kept him in similar high posts in the face of charges by some New Dealers that Stettinius was too "big business minded."

Stettinius was 43 when Roosevelt named him Under Secretary of State, a surprise appointment. He took over the top cabinet post a year later, becoming the second youngest Secretary of State in American history.

Carrying on the work of his predecessor, Cordell Hull, Stettinius was permanent chairman of the Dumbarton Oaks Security conference that gave birth to the United Nations.

Local Congregation
Meets On Sunday

The congregation of Prince of Peace Episcopal church held its annual parish meeting on Sunday evening following a service of evening prayer and intercessions for the church. Immediately after the service, the congregation moved from the church to the parish house for the purpose. After the minutes of the last parish meeting and a financial statement of the acting treasurer, Charles E. Curley, the vicar gave a report of the services of the past year and also one on the alms box. Mrs. Helen Corbett reported for the Women's Auxiliary, Mr. Curley for the Men's club and the vicar, the Rev. W. R. Doyle, read a report for the Altar Guild in the absence of a treasurer for that organization.

The chief business of the meeting was the election of five men to serve on the Vestry committee for the coming year. The following were elected: Arthur Buehler, Auguste Sergeant, Paul Littleton, Guyon E. Buehler and Charles E. Curley. The Rev. Mr. Doyle will appoint five additional members and announce their names at next Sunday's services.

OFFICIAL WEEK

Girl Scouts, their leaders and assistant leaders, attended church services Sunday morning marking the beginning of Girl Scout Week, which extends throughout this week.

At Prince of Peace Episcopal church, 60 scouts and scouters were present for a special morning service at which the Rev. W. R. Doyle, vicar, delivered a sermon on "The Road of Life," prepared especially for the service. Catholic Girl Scouts at the same time attended mass at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

This afternoon the Girl Scouts will continue their scout week activities by decorating windows in a number of local stores. Each window will illustrate some phase of Girl Scout activities.

The schedule for window decoration includes: Troop 29, Lane's Studio; Troop 8, Coffman-Fisher; Troop 10, Rea and Derick; Troop 6, Bike Insurance; Troop 7, Maring's; Troop 11, Dougherty and Hartley's; Troop 23, Tobey's.

Girl Scout Promise

In his sermon Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Doyle said "The Girl Scout promise includes duty to God, and this duty is at least in part expressed in the Scout Law. Thus scouting is not only a pleasure but also a means of instruction in how to live."

"A man traveling from one town to another may find the road a twisting one, one that leads over mountains and across rivers, through weather both clear and stormy, but the important thing is the road itself. It is the same with life. Our Lord's life from Bethlehem to Calvary and beyond was beset with obstacles, but led to His triumph. It is not easy to stay on the road but it can be done by seeking God's continual guidance in prayer. Prayer is only conversation with God. People make it difficult by trying to make it formal. All young people should learn early to talk over all they do with God. If there is anything we cannot take to God, it will mean it is something we should not be doing."

The Rev. Mr. Doyle noted four forces at work in everyone's life, "love of self, fear of others, power of evil and the power of God. The weapons are self denial, detachment, resistance and obedience, all applied with prayer. Most lives are a mixture of the four, so our chief business of life is to tread our way through these forces to the true land of the free, to God."

DRIVER GIVEN
JAIL SENTENCE

Robert E. Kegerreis, 21, Chambersburg R. 6, who pleaded guilty on January 7 to a charge of involuntary manslaughter, was sentenced by Judge Ray P. Sherwood, York, Saturday morning to six months in jail and to pay the costs. The court said that because of the defendant's previous good reputation he may apply for parole at the end of three months if his conduct in jail is good.

This sentence came after a plea of his counsel, Attorney Horace G. Ports; a statement by Attorney Charles H. Still, counsel for the woman widowed by the alleged improper operation of an automobile by Kegerreis; a petition for leniency filed at the time the plea was entered and signed by about 200 citizens of Chambersburg and vicinity attesting to the young man's good reputation; and a letter from Chief of Police H. S. Byers, Chambersburg, who offered to act as the defendant's sponsor if the court would release him on parole.

Attorney Still told the court that settlement had been made by Kegerreis for all civil damages growing out of the fatality and that his client would be satisfied with what the court saw fit to do.

Kegerreis, while driving an automobile on the Lincoln highway near Abbottstown on February 26, 1948, swung around a wood laden truck and onto the far side of the road. There his machine struck and instantly killed Paul Goodenberger, Abbottstown.

Since the tragedy Kegerreis has become a father. After the sentence he sobbed convulsively as his counsel tried to comfort him.

'PRANKSTERS' BLAMED FOR TAKING CASH

Some "youngsters" are going much too far on their "tricks or treats" activities in connection with Halloween, several residents of the north end of town notified The Gettysburg Times today.

At one home three young men, about 15 or 16 years of age, appeared asking for "tricks or treats." The lady of the house invited them in and presented them with cakes and apples, as has been her custom with other youngsters who are "out Halloweening." While they were in the living room and the home owner was in the kitchen securing the treat, the youngsters removed a pocketbook containing about $20 from a handbag that was lying in the living room.

Another resident complained today that someone—apparently celebrating Halloween—opened the doors of a car and cut and ripped the seat cover on the front seat.

Two On Probation

Sporadic outbursts of Halloween mischief over the week-end brought numerous telephone complaints to both the borough and state police, these authorities reported today.

Two juveniles who earlier last week were alleged to have entered an unoccupied house and to have thrown paint on the floors, were placed on probation for one year by Judge W. C. Sheely.

Borough police received a report that boys were breaking milk bottles on Middle street. A window was broken on Carlisle street and the glass in an automobile was shattered, according to other reports.

REFORMATION
DAY SERVICE IS HELD SUNDAY

Members of the Protestant churches of the community heard a sermon by Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Place Methodist church of Washington, D. C., Sunday evening in the majestic theatre at a service marking the 432nd anniversary of Reformation Day.

Pastors of the town churches took part in the annual service which was sponsored by the Gettysburg Ministerium.

Doctor Rustin, who is pastor of the largest Protestant church in Washington, told his audience "the most urgent need of our day is the development of moral and spiritual powers to guide the use of our scientific and industrial developments, or all will be in vain."

Responsibilities With Freedom

He reviewed the background of the Reformation and pointed out that John Huss and Wycliff had protested against corruption in the church of their day as much as 200 years before Luther posted his famous 95 theses.

"With our claims to freedom in our religion, we must remember that responsibilities go with that freedom. We claim the right to make our own decisions about our relations with our church but we must at the same time accept the responsibility of living an active Christian life," the speaker said. "Let us pray that our church may have the vision, the courage and the faith to open its doors to the people of our day, meet their needs by giving all men free access to their God. Our church must be a living force that shakes people out of their tendency to drift along in a smug, sanctimonious way of life."

The call to worship was given by the Rev. J. O. Fountain, pastor of (Please Turn to Page 2)

AWAITS SENTENCE

Ralph D. Zinn, Hanover R. 3, was arrested Saturday on a morals charge brought by Esther M. Yingling, Hanover. After being placed in jail he posted bond Saturday evening for a hearing Thursday before Justice of the Peace John H. Basore. This morning he appeared before the justice to enter a plea of noli contendere (no defense) to the charge and posted $1,000 bail to appear for sentencing by the Adams court in November.

Just How Big Is TOO BIG?

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR
Just how big is too big?

That is the $64 question, the Department of Justice notwithstanding.

In an effort to answer it, let us consider the two anti-trust suits filed recently against E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., and The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. These anti-trust suits are regarded as the most important brought in recent years.

With respect to the duPont case, its true purpose, as stated by the then Attorney General, Hon. Tom C. Clark, is to break up the largest single concentration of industrial power in the United States. This statement of the Attorney General leads one to the conclusion that the suit arises out of a determination by the Department of Justice to attack BIGNESS in business as such. If this is the situation, then the Department lacks, apparently, a clear understanding of our American economy, and fails to realize the consequences to that economy of a successful attack upon BIGNESS in business.

Success Needs Cooperation

While it is recognized that many jobs can be done best by small business, it is also true that there are other projects that can be accomplished only by large companies with many resources at their disposal. The strength and vigor of our economy are due to cooperation between large and small enterprises. Were it not for the fact that success on the part of the government in destroying the BIGNESS in business might well pull down our whole economic structure of mass production, and thus disrupt our constant and progressive improvements in living standards and industrial expansion, the extremes to which Washington's smart young lawyer-bureaucrats are going in their attack (Continued From Page 6)

Bullets Run Rough Shod To Tounce Johns Hopkins 56-6; Fitzkee Boots 8 Extra Points

A game but outclassed Johns Hopkins university football team became the fifth victim of the Gettysburg college gridders Saturday afternoon when the Bullets rolled up their highest point total in nine years to triumph 56-6 on Homewood Field, Baltimore, before approximately 4,000 fans.

Coach "Hen" Bream used his entire squad but even the reserves were having an "on" day as the score steadily mounted in the second half.

Ronnie Fitzkee, extra point specialist for the Bullets, set a new local record when he booted eight points in an many tries, each of his kicks sailing squarely between the uprights. For the Bitner-Fitzkee combination it marked 20 successful tries in 23 attempts this year.

Dwight Speaker gave an outstanding performance by racing to three touchdowns while Tony Cervino, Jack Jones and Don Young also contributed on touchdown runs.

Johnson Recovers
Bob Johnson recovered a Blue Jay fumble on the Hopkins' 48 to start the Bullets rolling for their first TD. Jones raced to the 28 on a lateral. After a plunge lost a yard Speaker got off on a beautiful 29-yard run for the score.

Bill Keetley intercepted a pass by Kulaus on the Jays' 27 several plays later to pave the way for the Bullets' second tally. Tony Cervino scampered around end for a first down on the 12. An off-side penalty against Hopkins was followed by a one-yard plunge by Speaker, who then swept right end to hit pay dirt.

Johnson snatched another Hopkins pass on the Blue Jays' 30 and the Bullets were off for their third touchdown of the period. Ross Sachs passed to Bob McCausland for a first down on the 7 from where Jones went around left end into the end zone.

With Speaker, Cervino and Jones sparking the drive, the Bullets moved 64 yards for a score in the second quarter, Cervino circling end from the 7 to tally.

Hopkins Scores
Johns Hopkins unleashed a fine passing attack to march 60 yards for its lone TD in the second quarter. Lay scoring on an end run from the 3. Miller's placement for the point was wide.

Marty Pavelic recovered a Jay fumble on the opponents' 35 midway in the third quarter from where Speaker got off on another touchdown sprint.

A few minutes later Sachs passed to Bud Musselman for a first down on the 23 and then tossed a perfect strike to Cervino in the end zone.

A long pass, Bitner to Dick Thomas, was good for 50 yards to put the ball on the Jays' 13 early in the final quarter and then Bitner fired to Coder for the score.

Gettysburg's final score resulted shortly afterwards when Young got off on a 45-yard run around his own left end.

Bucknell Next
In winning their fifth game in six starts, the Bullets gave an impressive exhibition with fine blocking and tackling. The line proved almost unmovable throughout while the backs turned in some of the prettiest running they have shown all season.

Next Saturday the Bullets meet the powerful Bucknell Bison on Memorial Field in the annual Homecoming game.

SQUIRES WIN 33-6 TO KEEP PERFECT MARK

Delone Catholic high school's football team established itself as the class of schoolboy gridders in this section by walloping the hitherto unbeaten St. Francis prep 33-6 Sunday afternoon at McSherrystown before an over-flow crowd of about 4,000 fans.

The Squires were complete masters from start to finish and won with surprising ease.

The victory was the eighth of the season for the Squires and their 17th straight in a two-year span. For St. Francis it marked the first setback after six wins.

As a result of the triumph the Squires are head and shoulders above all other competition in the race for 1939 honors in the Harrisburg Diocese. Coach Alex Bell's side topped the honors last year.

Continued off-side penalties hurt the Prep team, twice in the first period nullifying touchdowns, one on a pass, Breen to Kilgallen, and the other on a reverse by Nichols.

Delone took the ball on its own 3 through a punt in the first quarter and went the length of a field to tally, Murren going over from the 2. Smith converted on a placement.

Early in the second quarter Sheaffer took a pitchout and raced around right end for a score from the 19. Again Smith converted.

The second Squire touchdown of the period was made by Staub on a quarterback sneak from the 1-yard line, which culminated a Delone drive of 72 yards.

Murren got off on a long touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage in the third period to make the score 26-0.

St. Francis made its second bid for a score by driving to the Squires' 5 midway in the third period but Delone held and took over. Sheaffer then reeled off the longest run of the day when he broke through the line and cut back to go 78 yards unmolested for a score. Timmins plunged over for the point.

The Prep team finally manufactured a touchdown in the early minutes of the final quarter, Henry plunging over from the 3.

On Friday evening Delone meets Harrisburg Catholic at Harrisburg.

MOUNTS DOWN CATHOLIC U. FOR 26-6 WIN

After being held to a 6-6 tie at half time, the Mount St. Mary's football team exploded for three touchdowns in the last half to defeat Catholic university 26-6 Saturday afternoon at Washington, D. C., and ended its four-game losing streak.

Catholic U. scored in the opening period when Orsini recovered a fumble on the Mountaineer 16, DeYoung finally plunging over from the six-inch mark.

Coach John Law's outfit came right back to score on a 62-yard march, Bud Veltri plunging over from the 3 in the second period.

Late in the third period the Mounts scored twice, Veltri racing 10 yards, Walt Bellardini followed with a 50-yard run to score following an exchange of punts.

In the final quarter Veltri got off on a 53-yard run but was caught from the rear on the 20 by Ennis. Bellardini then carried for the remaining distance.

Bellardini and Veltri were easily the outstanding performers for the victors, each accounting for 143 yards and each tabbing a pair of touchdowns.

Next Saturday the Mounts will be host to Shippensburg State Teachers' college in the Homecoming game at Emmitsburg.

Biglerville high school's football team chalked up its fifth straight win by downing Palmyra 20 to 6 on the loser's field on Saturday afternoon.

Coach Gene Haas' charges scored once in every period except the third while Palmyra drove for its only score in the final frame. Up against a heavy team, employing a 5-3-2-1 defense, the Cannners made little ground through the line until late in the game, but operated around the flanks for consistent gains.

The Cannners rolled for 15 first downs with Palmyra picking up six. Biglerville attempted five passes and completed two. Palmyra completed three out of seven attempts. Eight penalties were called during the game.

Biglerville returned the opening kick-off to its own 23. On fourth down Heller kicked out of bounds on the Palmyra 35. Palmyra was forced to kick on fourth down and the Cannners took over on their 31.

Walde, on a statue of liberty play, gained a first to his 47. An off-side penalty and a pass, good from Heller to Rice, netted a first on the Palmyra 42. On third down Heller attempted a quick kick, which was blocked by Blough, and Palmyra took over on the Biglerville 34. Palmyra fumbled on second down and Warner recovered for the Cannners on his own 33.

Heller Runs 38
Heller, around end, got to the 45. Falde, on another end run, carried to the Palmyra 45 for another first down. Heller moved to the 15 but a penalty nullified the gain and moved the ball back to midfield. On fourth down Heller kicked out of bounds on the Palmyra 17. Palmyra got nowhere and kicked. Heller took the kick on the Palmyra 38 and weaved his way over the last marker for a score. Heller's extra kick was good.

Palmyra gained its initial first down early in the second quarter when a pushing penalty against Biglerville gave them a first down on their 48. Then on second down the Palmyra ball handler was rushed causing him to fumble and Plattenberg recovered for Biglerville at midfield. Pitzer cracked down to the Palmyra 28. Heller moved around end for a first down to the 16. Pitzer plunged to the 13 and then to the 9. Rice gained to the 7 on a quarterback sneak. Another quarterback sneak by Warner netted a first down on the 3. Pitzer bucked to the 1 on two plunges and then Rice, on a quarterback sneak, smashed over for the touchdown. The extra point try was not made.

Kint Intercepts
After the second half kick-off Palmyra took to the air. On third down Kint intercepted a pass and the Cannners took over on the Palmyra 45. On third down Heller circled end for a first down to the 34. Biglerville got nowhere on the next four downs and Palmyra took over. Near the end of the quarter the Cannners took possession on their own 34 and started to move on a sustained drive.

On a perfectly timed pass and lateral play with Heller passing to Warner, who lateraled to Pitzer, the Cannners picked up yardage to the Palmyra 42 but a clipping penalty nullified the gain and moved the ball to the Cannners' 42. Pitzer, on two plays, picked up a first down to the Palmyra 47 as the third quarter ended.

Resuming play in the final frame the Cannners were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. On the next play Heller picked up a first down to the Palmyra 41. Walde moved around end to the 24 for a first down. Heller pushed to the 16 and Pitzer made it a first down on the 5. Walde plunged to the 1 and then cracked over for the score. Heller's extra point kick was good.

Grant took the following kick-off for Palmyra and fought all the way back to the Biglerville 40. Boyer moved for nine yards and then Berman cracked down to the Cannners' 26 for a first down. An unnecessary roughness penalty against the Cannners gave Palmyra another first on the 14. Boyer and Kreiser netted another first down to the 4. From here Berman plunged off tackle for Palmyra's only score. An extra point pass was incomplete.

Rice brought the kick-off to his own 44 and, on a fourth down quarterback sneak, picked up a first to the Palmyra 41. Rice, on another fourth down quarterback sneak, gained another first down on the 29. On second down Heller skirted his end and moved to the 7. With time running out and the Palmyra line holding, Heller, Pitzer and Walde got nowhere. The game ended with the ball on the 6.

On Saturday Biglerville will play at Red Lion.

PENN TUMBLES FROM RANKS OF P.A. UNDEFEATED

(By The Associated Press)
There are only three undefeated and untied football teams left in Pennsylvania today.

West Chester and St. Vincent, each with six straight victories, and Gannon with four still are riding in the clouds. Wilkes hasn't been beaten but has logged one tie.

Latest perfect record elevens to fall among the common herd are Penn and Kutztown.

A snarling Pitt Panther wouldn't be denied in Philadelphia last Saturday and rose to the heights to whip Penn in a close one, 22 to 21.

With 35 seconds to play and Penn leading by a single point, Pitt Guard Bernie Barkouskie blasted through to block a kick, the ball bounding out of the end zone for a safety. That was it.

Pitt is home awaiting for the challenge of Ohio State, co-big ten leader. Penn seeks to rebound against unbeaten Virginia.

Kutztown lost its first game of the season as Bloomsburg—State Teachers' champion—won a 27 to 14 battle. West Chester walloped Millersville 26 to 0; St. Vincent' turned back St. Francis 13 to 0; Gannon shot out Slippery Rock 15 to 0 and Wilkes romped 64 to 6 over Lycoming.

Leo Castle, of Wilkes, and Ralph Longmore, of Duquesne, each scored four touchdowns in helping their teams to respective victories over Lycoming and St. Louis. Duquesne made it 51 to 14.

Juniata outscored Haverford 33 to 20 as little Mike Dzvonar scored 21 points to take over the leadership in the state scoring parade. The Juniata ace has 72 points for his efforts this year.

Lehigh took over New York university with the assistance of Dick Gabriel's 11th touchdown of the campaign. Penn State rallied to trip Syracuse 33 to 21 and balance the season log at 3-3.

Temple could find solace only in the fact that it scored first. Maybe that was the wrong psychology because an infuriated Michigan State team tuned up for next week's big business against Notre Dame by trampling the Philadelphians 62 to 14.

Bucknell kept winning with a 21 to 7 rout of Buffalo. California Teachers' scored a 13 to 7 decision over Shippensburg to remain unbeaten in the Teachers' college race.

Carnegie handled Washington and Jefferson with surprising ease, 39 to 16. In other major state games Muhlenberg bowed 25-13 to Delaware; Scranton found out why Boston university is rated a power as it absorbed a 46 to 6 shellacking; East Stroudsburg dropped a 19 to 7 decision to Rider, and Allegheny fell before Dickinson 21 to 13.

FRESHMEN HALT WIN STREAK OF BUCKNELL 21-18

Coach Clyde Cole's strong Gettysburg college freshman football team took to the air to hand the Bucknell frosh their first loss after 13 victories by a 21-18 score Saturday afternoon at Lewisburg.

Berky Ward, former Waynesboro high star, fired passes to Bob Hottle and to Russ Hess for the Bullet tallies.

The Bucknell frosh had not lost since 1947 when they were beaten by the Penn State junior college.

The Bullets were forced to come from behind twice during the contest. Bucknell advanced deep into Gettysburg territory in the second period on end run sweeps with Talmadge finally scoring from the 4-yard stripe. The kick for the point was wide.

A few minutes later Gettysburg went ahead. With the ball on their own 40, the Bullets took to the air. Ward passing to Hottle on the Bisons' 40 and he raced the distance to tally. Reider added the first of his three extra points on a placement to put the locals ahead.

Bucknell took the lead in the third period when Talmadge ran a punt back 65 yards for a TD. The kick for the point was blocked.

In the fourth stanza Ward passed twice to Hess for tallies, the first for 26 yards and the second for 29.

The final Bison score resulted on a long pass to Myers near the end zone on a play which started on the Gettysburg 40.

The Bullet yearlings will go after their third victory in as many starts Friday afternoon when the strong Mercersburg academy team will be played here.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THOSE EARLY INTERESTS

The mind is never so plastic as in early youth, and especially in childhood. Then it is that speculation is alive and on fire. The mind then is susceptible to endless turns and endless roads of interest. A thousand twigs may be bent at this stage of life.

Those early interests are the most golden of anything that later appear. Nothing is so mysterious and miraculous as the unfolding of the thoughts of a new being suddenly given the world as a gift! How many times we in our mature mood look back to those early days, wondering why we were thwarted from so many interests, from so many pleasures, and from so many thrills.

Interests are what feed our initiative and which give to us our incentive to invent, speculate and dream. They are our inheritance. No one should interfere with them. We should not allow anyone to take from us that which creation alone presented to us. The power of choice is inherent. A student does not "skip" classes that are made interesting to him.

Many of us carry our earliest interests, or many of them, at least, with us throughout life. If we don't find ourselves beginning to fall apart when we most need to remain intact! I, in turn, am thrilled at the job and enthusiasm of old men and women at baseball and football games. I can think of no more enlivening hobby than the adding of more interest as life goes on.

People with plenty of interests have no time in which to mope or complain, and such people never ripen into bores. Rather are they welcomed on every hand. Interests may not keep the hair from whitening, but they will keep the mind from rusting, and give greater cheer to the aging heart than anything that I know about!

So I would say to parents and school teachers: Let the interests of those under your charge "run wild" if need be. Give play and fun its full stream. Leave the brakes to those whose interests may occasionally need them. The seeds of genius grow and thrive in the field of interests.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Reading."

HALLOWEEN

Opening the door tonight
I shall jump away in fright,
And if what is wrong I'm asked,
I shall say: "A pirate masked
Shouted, as once pirates did:
'Where've you got the booty hid?'"

Halloween! The time that brings
Terror when the doorbell rings.
Ghosts and goblins, robed in white,
Moaning like the wind at night
Chill all grandpas with dismay,
Which is why their hair is gray.

Little beggars, sad to see,
Holding baskets out to me,
Pleading: "Help the poor!" I'll meet.
"Come!" I'll say. "Come in and eat!
Here is welcome warm and true.
We have cookies made for you."

Still it's fun when you've grown old
Entertaining pirates bold.
Lucky he, who plays the host
To a little lady ghost.
Old? That isn't what I mean.
No one's old on Halloween.

Pennys Tumbles Into Red For '49

Philadelphia, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad announces its net income tumbled into the red for the first nine months of 1949.

BONUS QUESTION ENLIVENS QUIET PA. CAMPAIGN

By L. U. LESLIE

Harrisburg, Oct. 31 (AP)—A remarkably quiet election campaign went into its final week in Pennsylvania today.

The one big state-wide issue is a proposed $500,000,000 state bonus to the commonwealth's 1,300,000 veterans of World War II. It has provoked heated debate.

A judge of the state Superior Court will also be elected by the voters on November 8. That is the court which, among other things, hears appeals on rate cases from decisions of the Public Utility Commission.

Most Issues Local

In addition, counties, cities, boroughs and townships will elect thousands of local officials to handle affairs of government at the local level for the next four years.

Across the state there are sharp contests for many offices but the issues largely are local. However, the challenge to the dominant Republican organization in Philadelphia and the Democratic organization in Pittsburgh has attracted considerable state-wide attention because of the possible effect of the outcome on next year's gubernatorial campaign.

The principal issue of the proposed veterans' bonus is how it will be financed. Recognized veterans' organizations have campaigned aggressively for its adoption. Veterans' committees in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, organized for the purpose, are opposing it.

How To Be Financed?

The proposal, if approved by the voters, would authorize the commonwealth to sell $500,000,000 in bonds to pay a maximum of $500 to each of the state's World War II veterans. The average payment has been estimated at $335 on the basis of $15, monthly, for overseas service and $10, monthly, for domestic service.

The Legislature, in submitting the issue to a state-wide referendum, left its financing to the 1951 session, unless a special session is called before that time. Opponents claim new or additional taxes will be needed to pay the bonus. The proponents deny that and say it could be financed over a period of years from existing revenue through budget readjustments and economies in state services.

The interest in the bonus issue was reflected in registration figures for the November 8 election. They showed an increase of 164,503 enrolled voters since the September 13 primary. The total almost equals the all-time high registration of 5,000,000 in 1940.

Quiet Judicial Campaign

The candidates for the Superior Court are Judge William E. Hirt, of Erie, Republican seeking his second 10-year term, and Judge Harry M. Montgomery, of the Allegheny county Common Pleas Court, Democrat. Each has conducted a quiet campaign limited to personal appearances in various sections of the state with little speechmaking.

The seven-judge tribunal now is composed of five Republicans and two Democrats. The GOP members, in addition to Hirt, are Judges John C. Arnold, W. Heber Dithrich, John S. Fine, and Claude T. Reno. The Democratic members are President Judge Chester H. Rhodes and Judge F. Clair Ross.

A major development of the Philadelphia campaign was the endorsement by the Philadelphia Inquirer of two Democratic candidates, Richardson Dilworth, for treasurer, and Joseph Sili Clark, Jr., for controller.

Watch Two Large Cities

The Inquirer lists itself as politically independent but leaders of both parties have regarded it for years as a staunch supporter of Republican views.

The Inquirer, referring to the long GOP rule in Philadelphia, said in its endorsement that "no one political organization should be permitted to maintain a monopoly on public office."

In Pittsburgh, Mayor David L. Lawrence, long a top figure in Democratic councils of the state and nation, is opposed for re-election by Tice Ryan, Republican. Gov. James H. Duff figured in selection of Ryan as Lawrence's opponent.

Politicians of both parties are watching the outcome of the election in the commonwealth's two biggest cities for straws-in-the-wind for the 1950 elections. A defeat for the ruling party in either city would possibly be a factor in making up next year's ticket.

largely due to the coal strike and a recently-installed five-day work week for its employees.

The nation's largest railroad yesterday reported a deficit of $1,573,635 for the first nine months from January to September of this year as compared to a net income of $20,441,156 over the same period last year.

The month of September sent the railroad's income below the zero mark as the road lost $2,721,739 compared to a gain in September, 1948, of $7,201,540. The railroad did not disclose earnings per share for its common stockholders.

A spokesman blamed the coal strike, which began Sept. 19, for the drop in revenues last month. The spokesman explained that the cutting of the work week increased operating costs tremendously.

Improving Lily-Of-The-Valley

Lily-of-the-Valley, listed in seed and nursery catalogues as Convallaria, seldom attains its maximum peak of beauty and fragrance unless old crowding beds are renovated every few years. This task, along with starting new plantings, belongs to the calendar for October.

This plant develops a vigorous underground mass of roots which spread year after year, sending up top growth. Unless the roots are thinned out and the plants afforded ample space every three to five years, foliage becomes so dense that few if any blooms are produced. Of course, in this crowded state Lily-of-the-Valley makes an excellent ground cover for shaded areas where grass will not thrive.

It is easy to make the mistake of growing this ornamental in a poor, run-down place because it seems to do well under almost all adverse soil conditions. The same error is often made by planting it in dense shade. However, growers never enjoy the full beauty of this hardy perennial until they give it a chance in a deeply fertile, well drained loam in full sun. Here, if not allowed to become crowded, plants will produce more and larger flower heads and the foliage will be more attractive at the same time.

If an old crowded bed needs working over before winter and the plants are to be returned to the same bed, clumps should be raised with a spading fork and the roots heeled in a shady nook so they will not dry out while bed repairs are under way. Of course, if lifted plants are to be moved to another site, the bed should be made ready and the transfer made without long exposure of roots to sun and air.

If the same old site is used, well rotted manure and compost should be spaded in to a depth of at least 10 to 12 inches. Weathered cow manure gathered from a summer pasture field is excellent for this purpose, as it is for most other bulbous and tuberous rooted ornamentals. Some bone meal should be worked uniformly through the top soil. Old clumps should be broken apart and the strongest plants replanted about four inches apart each way.

To start a new bed, buy pups and plant them as advised here for planting old divisions. In either case planting may be done any time from early October until just before freezing weather arrives. Leaves of old plants usually indicate the earliest safe planting date by turning yellow.

Lily-of-the-Valley prefers neutral or slightly acid soil. Therefore, no lime or wood ashes should be used in preparing the soil. In most cases some woods soil should be worked into the loam to render known alkaline soils suitably acid or at least neutral in reaction. Leaf-mold from an old oak forest serves effectively in this role. In lieu of woods soil it may prove advisable to work a little aluminum sulphate into the top soil before planting time.

Strong commercial pups may be forced into bloom indoors by potting them four to six in a six-inch pot and placing the pot in a sunny window. Blooms appear in four to six weeks.

One of the outstanding merits of Lily-of-the-Valley, besides their recognized beauty and rare fragrance, is their freedom from insects and diseases. For no sounder reasons this ornamental deserves consideration.

The editor will be glad to furnish readers a condensed growing guide on request.

Wire Mesh Protects Trees From Rabbits

Many a gardener has learned to his sorrow that rabbits become a serious garden menace after their natural food supply in the open fields has been covered with snow. Trapping and shooting them present legal and practical difficulties.

One course open is to protect the plants. Wire netting does a good job around young trees, whose bark rabbits eat when more convenient food becomes scarce. It is not exclusively trees they go after, however. They seem to relish the branches of the firethorn (pyracantha). Because these are rather thin they are not content with nibbling off the bark but go right through the wood. Although this natural pruning may not ruin the plant completely no gardener feels inclined to shrug at the damage.

Again it is a case of providing tight wire mesh as far up as the rabbits can reach when snowfall is at its deepest.

FIVE MILLION IN PENNA. CAN VOTE

Harrisburg, Oct. 31 (AP)—Nearly 5,000,000 Pennsylvanians, spurred on by the $500,000,000 veterans' bonus proposal, registered to vote in the Nov. 8 election.

Almost complete figures across the Commonwealth show 4,932,530 qualified to cast ballots on the heated issue as well as to select a number of local officers.

A gain in enrollment of 164,503 since the Sept. 13 primary reflected the results of the intensive registration drive conducted by veterans' organizations.

The total registration is only 82,180 less than the state's all-time high of 1940 when 5,014,710 registered for the presidential election.

The registration, lacking only new figures from Erie and Lackawanna counties, showed:

Republicans — 2,925,440
Democrats — 1,945,130
Minor parties — 61,960
Total — 4,932,530

The registration for the September primary was: Republicans, 2,841,134; Democrats, 1,868,184, and minor parties 58,709, total 4,768,027.

Since the September primary the Republicans gained 84,306 voters and the Democrats, 76,946.

HARDIER VINES MAY BE PLANTED IN FALL MONTHS

Vines hardy enough to survive a normal winter outdoors may be planted successfully in the fall. They have an advantage over spring-planted ones in that they are able to make good root growth and become well established before freezing weather. In the spring they start into active growth immediately. Tender vines, of course, should be planted in the spring.

Most vegetables should be harvested before arrival of freezing weather. Store squashes and pumpkins in a cool cellar. Pull carrots and beets intended for winter use and store them in peat moss or sand in a cool cellar. Close cutting of beet tops is not recommended, as they may bleed. Store cabbages outdoors by placing heads down in trenches and covering them with leaves and soil.

Sow as soon as possible hardy annuals outdoors where they are to bloom. Those suited to fall sowing include calendula, candytuft, eschscholtzia, clarkia, calliopsis, goetia, larkspur, sweet sultan, annual chrysanthemum, sweet peas, sweet alyssum, portulaca and Centaurea cyanus.

Still Time To Plant

Mulch lily-of-the-valley beds with well rotted manure, peat moss or leafmold. It is well to remember in applying mulches for winter protection that the purpose of mulching is to keep the ground frozen and not to keep it from freezing.

Prepare the beds for the new garden roses to be planted in November.

There still is time to plant shrubs and trees. They should be watered once every two weeks if it does not rain sufficiently up to the time of freezing.

Place coal ashes over the crowns of delphinium plants to protect them against snails and slugs over the winter. Slugs and snails in general are harmful to plants. Their favorite refuge is under boards and logs. They can be destroyed now with hydrated lime.

Planting of hardy bulbs, particularly tulips, hyacinths and daffodils, may continue throughout November as long as the ground is not frozen or rendered unsafe for planting because of rain.

Many Fall Jobs

Set out bird-feeding stations. Seasoned gardeners know that old and weathered pots are more satisfactory for the growing of house plants and bulbs than new pots.

The tops of phlox and peonies should be cut off and burned as soon as they are completely browned by killing frosts.

Gather and burn wormy fruits lying under trees to help prevent disease.

As soon as the leaves drop, most deciduous trees, except flowering dogwood, birch, magnolia, tulip trees, sweet gum and a few others, may be moved this month. Keep them well watered until the ground freezes. Stake and tie them thoroughly to prevent heavy winter winds from loosening the roots in the soil.

Repair and paint garden furniture and garden tools before storing for the winter.

Quiz No. 1

What does it cost to advertise a pack of a leading brand of cigarettes? Is it 2¢ a pack? 3¢? 5¢?

Answer: It costs less than 1/2¢ a pack to advertise the big brands of cigarettes. That's only half the story. Advertising lowers your cost two ways:

Cuts the selling costs. And by helping make mass production possible, lowers the production costs, too.

So advertising saves you many times that 1/2¢ per pack.

Chapter 3
Cal Sheridan called at five o'clock; a long distance call. Briskly he reported clear skies and an intention to fly on south, if she didn't mind.

"Mind? Darling. I think it's a wonderful idea."
"A wonderful idea?" he echoed doubtfully. "Leta, you sound different. You sound like your old self."

"I am," she sang.
"Well, now, look, sweet, if you're in that mood, meet me in your car and we'll make an evening of it."

"Sorry; previous engagement. No, dear, nothing like that. I had a wire from Deirdre O'Meara; you remember her? I'm taking the eight o'clock express."

"All right, then I'll cut my fishing trip a week, make up for that week of evenings you wasted."

"Don't," she advised, "because I'm taking off for at least three weeks. I thought as long as I was North I might as well visit other friends; Aunt and Uncle are going to Mexico."

"Well, darling, be seeing you at home. Bye now."

Later, much later, she was on the last lap of her journey. She had flown as far as possible, to save time, entrained for a short trip and now was sitting beside the driver of a bus.

"Have to let you off here," the driver apologized. "Rain's got the store circle so soft I don't dare to take a chance."

She left the bus and waited for it to move back on its northward journey, then attempted to shift her airplane luggage to a better position. A station wagon dashed by, wheeled and raced into the grove where shuttered windows proclaimed a slumbering resort center.

Arieta looked down at her skirt and stockings and sighed. The wheels had spun up surface water and cast it at her in passing.

Well, she couldn't just stand there. Her mother had mentioned bus service from the highway to the Langtry tract, but from what the driver had said that too was seasonal. He'd also said the store had remained open. She'd find someone to drive her the remaining mile.

Two steps and she was around the point which had cut off a view of the store. The station wagon had pulled up before it, and a girl had jumped out to dash up the store steps and come to a sharp stop before a man who had just emerged. Arieta had an impression of sharp beauty, energy and arrogance as the girl faced the man.

"How"—the voice was imperious—"I want to see you."

"You have, my dear," he returned, passing her in a quick downward step. "But there was someone you failed to see."

He was looking at Arieta as he spoke, grey eyes laughing in friendly fashion.

"We're not usually this rude," the young man apologized as he came toward her. "Were you expecting someone, or may I help you?"

She liked his tall leanness, the rough tweeds, the slouch hat pulled over light brown hair and the funny quirk of his left eyebrow.

"Thank you—" he'd somehow managed to reassemble her luggage, taking all but a small bag. "No, I wasn't expecting anyone, but I had counted on the Langtry bus."

"Langtry—oh, you mean the Sunrise bus. No. Sorry. Poor old thing was farmed out a year ago."

They were approaching the store. Arieta looked up to see the dark-haired girl staring down at her, a look of utter hatred in her eyes.

"Allene—" began the man. But with one quick movement Allene was down the steps, the wagon door slamming behind her, the roar of the car motor drowning the surprised, "Allene, wait."

"It's obvious," he remarked, turning to Arieta, "you weren't a prospective house guest. Well, I live in that general direction. I'd be happy to take you. No," he brushed her uncertainty aside, "I was just leaving."

They discussed the weather and other safe impersonal topics, and then the car turned into the resort proper and the man remarked that nothing could look so utterly dreary as a summer resort in the winter.

"I always preferred the resort this way," Arieta remarked. "The cottages look as though they were asleep. Goodness knows they need a rest after the wear and tear of a vacation season."

"Thanks," said he. "Asleep. Right—those shutters like closed eyelids; look, that one has its cap pulled down over its eyes."

"And that one's snoring; see the open mouth." An inset doorway not visible from the road.

"Wonderful, and thanks again."

"Why thanks?" asked Arieta.

"Cover for a travel man," he answered absently. "Good for a few cartoons, also."

So he was an artist? Arieta waited for something further, but he seemed lost in some pleasant speculation.

Arieta looked north and cried, "Oh, look, Lake Langtry."

"Did you say Lake Langtry?" scoffed the man beside her. "You don't suppose the people around here would tolerate that name!"

Arieta was still with the stillness of shock. She heard the car rumble over the bridge, was aware of where she was, but the rumble was like the rumble of a storm she'd known must come. "That name," The scorn he had put into the words, Langtry? Oh, but that had been a proud name, a name the natives rolled over their tongue with affection, an honored name.

They had reached a turn around on the far side, and here three roads forked west.

"Sorry," the man beside her chuckled, "I've failed to ask your destination. Which of these roads—"

"I am going to the Langtry ranch," said Arieta through stiff lips.

"Langtry—" He turned now to stare at her, and in place of quick companionship, amusement and admiration, there was watchful speculation.

"I am Arieta Langtry."

WIFE HELD IN ATTACK CASE

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 31 (AP)—A Greenville laundry worker today awaited grand jury action on charges growing out of what the state said was a "slay-for-pay" attack on her farmer husband.

Mrs. Theresa Hirschman, 38, is free on $2,000 bail after she pleaded innocent to charges of conspiracy and assault with intent to kill. Two men pleaded guilty to similar charges in the pick handle attack on Edward Hirschman, 47, at his North Shenango township farm in July, 1948. They are Charles I. Gerhart, 19, Slicksburg coal miner, and Clyde Ayers, 34, Greenville machinist. They are held in Crawford county jail. Sentence will be passed November 28.

Gerhart, arrested by state police last Tuesday, implicated Ayers and Mrs. Hirschman. He said they offered him "several thousand dollars" if he would kill Hirschman.

The young coal miner told police he attacked the farmer with a pick handle but was frightened away when Hirschman's screams brought his son running to the scene with a shotgun. Hirschman was not seriously hurt.

Court records show Hirschman filed a divorce suit against his wife shortly after the attack, charging "indignities to his person." The suit later was withdrawn although the couple still is separated. They have three children.

Just How Big Is TOO BIG?

tempts to destroy BIG BUSINESS would be down-right funny.

Advances Is Threatened
BUT IT IS FAR FROM FUNNY. The little men of Big Government are deadly serious in their effort to liquidate BIG BUSINESS. They should remember that the ability of the United States to advance in peace and survive in war is threatened by their contention that BIGNESS is bad in anything but government.

For example, the duPont Company was one of the leaders in the drive among American Chemical Manufacturers to make this country independent of Germany in dye-stuffs. That required an investment by the duPonts of $43,000,000 over a period of 18 years, and all this before profits offset losses.

Only a large company, (the government's target), could have afforded to take such a risk, or could have brought together the technical skills required for ultimate success.

The duPont story, like the Ford story, is a saga of American success. It began in a small way almost a century and a half ago. It has been characterized not by ruthless smothering of small competitors, but by an almost uncanny genius for producing new and better products that have incalculably raised the standard of American living.

Broad, General Law
If we have a modicum of common sense we will endeavor to look at these government proposals realistically, and not be led astray by an ambitious, politically-minded bureaucracy.

Without attempting an interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law, suffice it to say that the law was enacted some 59 years ago by a Republican Administration to correct certain monopolistic practices. It was drafted in broad and general terms. Its provisions are very elastic and capable of many interpretations. Application of the law's provisions to any particular case requires sound judgment and profound deliberation.

Distortion Of Intent
Since the enactment of the Sherman anti-trust law, particularly within the past decade, an anti-business philosophy has developed, and the provisions of the Act have been made applicable to situations and conditions in nowise intended by its proponents. The duPont and A & P suits are cases in point. In these actions the government's contentions are based primarily on BIGNESS rather than on any monopolistic evil requiring correction; and, in my judgment, such use of the Act is a distortion of its intent, and strikes at the very root of our economic system.

When all is said and done, we Americans like BIGNESS. We like to boast of our BIG things, of small things that have grown BIG. Only recently we spent a whole week telling, with much pride and fanfare, of everything BIG here in Pennsylvania, everything from the biggest ear of corn and the biggest red apple to the tallest sky-scraper. Instead of a number of independent fruit processing plants hereabouts, we now have, by consolidation, two BIG enterprises doing this work, owned and directed by our own local people. This we are proud of, and rightly so. And no longer are we satisfied with small, individual schools and school-houses, but are embodying their functions and activities in one BIG educational institution. We are proud of this too.

Reaches Leadership
Yes, we even like to see a very small business grow, but now and then it has such a phenomenal growth and makes so many friends that it climbs to a position of leadership and crosses an imaginary line into Big Business territory; and then strange things begin to happen. Some of the very people who agree that growing bigger is a good thing, now characterize this "growing-up" business as TOO BIG. And this brings us back to our query—JUST HOW BIG IS TOO BIG? Just when should a business stop growing?

One hundred and fifty years ago the duPont Company was a very small concern. It grew as our country grew, and to-day it is a BIG company. Would anyone be better off if the duPont Company had said, say 50 years ago, "We are too big, we refuse to grow bigger"? In that event we would have had no Duco finishes, no nylon, and no neoprene synthetic rubber. No plastics, moistureproof cellophane, synthetic camphor, and dozens of other products including quick-drying lacquers that broke the manufacturing bottleneck in the automobile industry.

Many Years Of Effort
To originate and make available each of these products meant investments running into many millions of dollars and many years of experimentation before any assurance could be had that any of them would prove practicable and return a profit. Today 60 per cent of the products sold by duPont did not exist, or were not being made on a commercial scale, prior to 1928.

Most of these products are now used chiefly as raw materials, and literally thousands of small businesses have been able to exist and prosper through the processing and distribution of these new raw materials produced on a mass scale at minimum cost by duPont.

Moreover, the duPont Company, during World War II, already burdened with the huge task of supplying unprecedented quantities of manufactured products for the armed services, was asked by the government to design, construct, and operate a plant to produce plutonium for the atomic-warfare program. The request was complied with upon insistence by the government that duPont was uniquely qualified for this particular undertaking. A plant costing $350,000,000, and involving technical and industrial problems never before encountered, was designed and built, and the much desired invaluable plutonium was produced in time for its effective use.

Who is there to say that duPont was TOO BIG in this instance? It should be apparent to any fair-minded person that without duPont and others like them there could have been no successful synthetic rubber industry, no synthetic textile fibers, no 30,000,000 automobiles in use, no successful atomic-energy program, no victory in World War II.

"Is Success A Sin?"
To the man in the street, it would seem that the government has set about to penalize the duPonts for successfully meeting the demands of the American public, both in the market place and on the battlefield. The truth is, if creating opportunity for thousands of new enterprises and individual jobs, if paying thousands of employees the highest wages, if contributing to world making this nation the strongest and most progressive nation on earth—if these be sins caused by BIGNESS in business, THEN SUCCESS IS A SIN and deserves a sinner's punishment.

Coming now to the A & P. case, my BIGNESS argument also is pertinent here. The objective sought by the Sherman anti-trust law was to increase competition and keep prices down, but just the opposite would be true were the government to win against the A & P. In other words, it would serve to reduce competition and force prices up. Success on the part of the government to destroy A & P would be contrary to the interests of millions of consumers who rely on these food stores for quality food at low prices; to the hundreds of thousands of producers who rely on A & P for efficient, low-cost distribution of their products, and to the 110,000 employees of A & P who have made the company the great organization it is.

A & P was the first chain store in this country, and the methods it developed have been adopted by other grocers, as well as merchants in other lines.

Does Fraction Of Business
It is difficult to recognize a monopoly in A & P. Every housewife knows that the retail grocery business is the most competitive in the country, and the figures show that A & P does only a small part of it—only 6.4% as compared with 11.7% in 1933. And there can be no charge of raised prices because the government's attack is based on the fact that A & P sells food too cheap. Obviously, the government's theory is that the American people have no right to patronize a company if their patronage will make that company grow; that any BIG business must be destroyed simply because it is BIG, even if the public suffers in the process.

The government's suit was filed against A & P on September 15, last. It would require a division of A & P's chain of 6,000 stores, which began with one small store on Vesey Street, New York, in 1859, into seven separate chains. This would mean giving up its centralized meat-purchasing department, and would also divorce it from the manufacture of its exclusive brands.

No sooner had the government's action become known throughout the country than protests from producers, competitors and customers began pouring in to both A & P and Washington.

A New York woman wrote, "It is a pleasure to write you. We boast all over the world that we are a democratic government. To be true to that assumption, why doesn't our government start hearings among millions of consumers before starting proceedings against your company."

An Ohio man, protesting the suit, said: "I have no connection with A & P. My sole interest is the preservation of things that make the United States the great progressive nation it is."

"You, Mr. Attorney-General," wrote another correspondent, "are the legal guardian of an administration elected ostensibly to protect the interests of the American people, even including home-makers who hold the food purse strings."

"Your stores have made it possible for poor people to live," said a Bronx housewife. And another, "In my opinion you have done for food distribution and prices what Ford did for transportation, and what General Electric and Westinghouse are doing for electrical energy."

My defense of A & P should not be construed as any reflection on the thousands of small, independent, neighborhood grocery stores. Each is an integral part of our great country. Each serves a beneficial purpose and, in many instances, undersells the A & P. Every community appreciates and is proud of its own independent grocery stores and meat markets and they are well patronized.

Protect Consumer
The basic purpose of the Sherman anti-trust act was to protect the consumer from the monopolistic practices of large trusts that control production in any one industry and, consequently, can establish and maintain excessive retail prices. With Safeway, Grand Union, Kroger, and other chains, together with many independents, as competitors, it would appear that A & P is moving away from monopoly rather than toward it.

Some A & P customers have taken advantage of the present letter-writing campaign to make what they consider constructive suggestions to their old friend, the A & P. Some ask for new store fronts; others want a more widespread use of the "express checkout," which provides special lines for persons with small purchases. Some think the "Tea Company" name is old-fashioned, and should be changed to "A & P Food Stores."

The widely publicized advertisement of an independent competitor in Waynesboro, Ga., is worth repeating, and I shall use it in concluding this article:

"A word for our competitor, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company:

"There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal government to destroy our leading competitor, the A & P Food stores."

"It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move."

"The A & P company is definitely our strongest competitor—it keeps us hopping, but we are still in business."

Waynesboro Groceries.

Again the query which heads this story: JUST HOW BIG IS TOO BIG?

Some A & P customers have taken advantage of the present letter-writing campaign to make what they consider constructive suggestions to their old friend, the A & P. Some ask for new store fronts; others want a more widespread use of the "express checkout," which provides special lines for persons with small purchases. "The A & P company is definitely our strongest competitor—it keeps us hopping, but we are still in business."

Waynesboro Groceries.

Again the query which heads this story: JUST HOW BIG IS TOO BIG?

Some A & P customers have taken advantage of the present letter-writing campaign to make what they consider constructive suggestions to their old friend, the A & P. Some ask for new store fronts; others want a more widespread use of the "express checkout," which provides special lines for persons with small purchases. Some think the "Tea Company" name is old-fashioned, and should be changed to "A & P Food Stores."

The widely publicized advertisement of an independent competitor in Waynesboro, Ga., is worth repeating, and I shall use it in concluding this article:

"A word for our competitor, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company:

"There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal government to destroy our leading competitor, the A & P Food stores."

"It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move."

EIGHT CONTESTS TO SHOW TREND IN U.S. POLITICS

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—A hammer-and-tongs race for governor in New Jersey, a U.S. Senate contest in New York and six strategic mayor elections next week may reflect advance political trends of the 1950 congressional campaign.

In New Jersey, Republican Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll is battling to keep in the GOP ranks a state that contributed 16 electoral votes in 1948 to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the losing presidential candidate.

Driscoll is opposed by Democratic state Senator Elmer H. Wene. A Democratic victory in the race would be certain to be considered a sign that the Republicans would have extremely tough going in their uphill battle to regain control of Congress next year.

Dulles vs. Lehman

Next door a mayor's race in New York city is sharing national interest with a special Senate election. Other municipal elections being watched closely for national trends include those in Louisville, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Republican strategists are placing their highest hopes on electing John Foster Dulles over Herbert H. Lehman, former Democratic governor, as New York Senator for the year remaining in the term of Democrat Robert T. Wagner, resigned. Dulles now holds the seat by appointment of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

In New York city Newbold Morris, the Republican-Liberal-Fusion candidate who ran third in 1945, is trying to unseat Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer. Rep. Vito Marcantonio is in the race, too, on the American Labor Party ticket. There are three other minor party nominees.

In Louisville the Republicans are

May Oppose Taft

Cleveland, which has the habit of producing mayors who go on up the political scale, has a potential aspirant for national attention in Democratic Mayor Thomas A. Burke, running for re-election.

There has been some talk of Burke as a possible opponent for Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) next year. Burke is opposed by Republican Frank A. Polk. The Democrats have won by margins of from 50,000 to 80,000, so a victory for Burke would be expected.

The Republicans seem to have a better chance in Pittsburgh, however, where Timothy T. Ryan is opposing Democratic Mayor David Lawrence.

Lawrence won by nearly 13,000 in 1945. Republicans, who carried Pennsylvania for Dewey last year,

COLD BLAST IN GREAT PLAINS

A cold blast chilled the Great Plains region all the way to the Gulf coast today.

Temperatures were near freezing as far south as the Texas panhandle and were expected to go below that mark tonight in the wake of strong gusts of wind which crippled power lines in Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Austin and San Antonio, Tex. Some gusts were reported up to 56 miles an hour.

Wichita, Kans., had a sub-freezing would like to turn Lawrence out of office as a sign that their victory in a special congressional election in the state earlier wasn't just a flash in the pan.

ing 30 degrees. The coldest spot was Sioux Falls, S. D., with 14 degrees. Fargo, N. D., had a low of 18.

There were snow flurries in the Lake Superior region and scattered light showers in the lower Mississippi valley. The eastern part of the nation had moderate to locally heavy rains last night. A fall of 1.23 inches was reported at Huntington, W. Va., within a six-hour period.

Skies generally were clear elsewhere over the nation.

Noah's Ark was calked with pitch, a form of petroleum gathered from the shores of the Dead Sea.

Use of pumice and pumicite reached a record 607,746 tons in the U.S. in 1948.

trying for the sort of off-year surge that almost carried them over in 1945, when they lost the mayor's office by only 221 votes. To carry Kentucky in 1950, they will have to do well in Louisville.

Kentucky elects a Senator next year to replace Senator Withers (D-Ky.), serving by appointment, as well as seven Democratic and two Republican house members. It's the kind of a border state the Republican will have to make hay in if they are to regain control of Congress.
